

Welcome to

Rock & Read

“Fun with reading for preschoolers and their parents”

This special evening storytime is for families with preschoolers who have enjoyed a toddler time and are ready for more.

At Rock & Read children will take part in a literature-based program of stories, poetry, music, movement, and fun! We're building healthy bodies with physical activity and capable brains with language activities.

Storytime programs ask that children follow directions, share, listen, participate, and allow others to enjoy the experience.

Here's how you can help your child . . .

- Arrive and get settled before the program starts. If you are late, remind your children to enter quietly, as you do.
- If children are ill, please attend another day.
- If children in your care become restless or disruptive, please remove them until they are ready to listen.
- Refrain from having personal conversations or using cell phones or pagers during storytime.
- Please do not bring any toys, food, drinks, or other personal items into the storytime area. These present health and safety hazards.

This program is designed to nurture school and reading readiness.
We look forward to your cooperation and participation.

Parents are welcome to visit with one another after the program has ended.

Please borrow materials from our displays and check them out at the Circulation Desk on the first floor.
